

TESTIMONY CONCLUDED IN THE SMITH MURDER TRIAL TODAY.

Adjournment Was Then Taken Until Tomorrow Morning When Jury Will Be Addressed.

CASE RAPIDLY COMING TO END

Expected That Jury Will Begin Its Deliberations Late Tomorrow or First Thing Wednesday Morning. Sheriff Johns Last Witness.

Special to The Courier. UNIONTOWN, Sept. 26.—The Smith murder case is rapidly drawing to a close. This morning at 11:50, after Sheriff P. A. Johns was excused from the witness stand, the defense cross-examined him and the case was taken until tomorrow morning.

Tomorrow the arguments will begin and there, it is believed, will take the greater part of the day. If the arguments are concluded in time for Judge Van Swearingen to charge the jury, the case will go to the 12 men tomorrow evening, otherwise they will not get it until Wednesday morning.

Charles Modjeski, sentenced to the Western Penitentiary last week by Judge R. E. Umbel, to serve two years and six months for forgery and false pretense, was the first witness in rebuttal, called by the defense today. Witness said his home was in Clifton Mills, W. Va., and during the last month he has acted as an inmate in the jail, witnessing the incident brought out in Saturday's testimony.

Witness said his home was in Clifton Mills, W. Va., and during the last month he has acted as an inmate in the jail, witnessing the incident brought out in Saturday's testimony.

On cross-examination, Patterson brought out Modjeski's record. The witness denied that Dr. Hagan said: "I know he isn't crazy now."

A member of counsel for the defense, William L. Gane, told of meeting Samuel Cooley, a Commonwealth witness in rebuttal, who swore he did not think Smith of abnormal mind, at Fairchance on the day after the murders. At that time this attorney said he inquired, "Why aren't you looking for Smith?" to which Constable Cooley replied: "I value my life too much to be out after a crazy man."

On the evening of September 12, Dr. F. C. Smith said Constable Alex Chisholm, of Uniontown, came to his office by appointment for treatment. The doctor said he did not know Chisholm as a witness for the State, and while talking about the case, the Constable told of a conversation he had with Smith on the night he was lodged in jail, and added: "Frank acted as though he surely did not know what he was doing. I think he surely must have been insane at the time of the crime." Dr. Smith said that after his patient left his office, he at once made a note of the statement, thinking the man would make a good witness for the defense.

Under cross-examination, Patterson asked the witness if it was not a fact that the defense had been built up on his opinion of the prisoner's sanity. McKean objected to the question as an insinuation not warranted, denying a defense had been built up around anything.

As the records show the doctor did make such a statement, last week, the question was withdrawn. The attorney asked if it wasn't pretty poor policy to write down anything his client or patient may have said while in his office and then appear against him. Dr. Smith answered that the statement he wrote down was made after he had completed his professional services.

County Detective Alex McBeth took the stand while the defense waited for a witness, and denied Sheriff P. A. Johns had ever told him that W. S. Leach, cousin of the First National Bank of Fairchance, had said to him he thought Smith insane. Leach was called by the Commonwealth in rebuttal and said he believed the defendant to be of sound mind. McBeth said Johns admitted to him, after leaving the stand on Saturday, that he had never told him anything of the kind.

Sheriff Johns was the only witness called in rebuttal. He took the stand and denied admitting anything of the kind to the County Detective.

May Be Fatal Fall. Falling from a scaffold near the Summit Saturday afternoon, Stephen Cline, aged 33, was probably fatally injured. He was taken to the Uniontown hospital where little hope is entertained for his recovery.

County Home Overcrowded. Complaint is made that the Somerset County Home is overcrowded.

Not Bob Singer Who's in London, For He Says So

R. W. Singer of Pittsburgh formerly of Connelville can truthfully say that the rumors about him floating around town this morning are grossly exaggerated. Amateur Hawshaw has picked out the picture in a New York paper as that of Singer. The picture was of an unknown American who for the past three months has been confined in a London hospital. He has lost his mind and does not know who he is or where he lives.

The photograph bears a striking resemblance to Bob Singer and many about town who know him were fully convinced that "Bob" was the unknown victim.

A telephone message to R. W. Singer in Pittsburgh this morning brought the answer: "I am on this side of the pond and able to identify myself. I also went to church last night."

Party Returns From Trip Which Lasts a Week Down to the Very Hour.

John Work, Paul Bolger and Captain Roy B. Koffer returned home last evening after a week's automobile tour to Cleveland, Akron, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Cambridge Springs and other points of interest. The trip was made in John Work's Cadillac.

The party returned to town exactly a week, to the very hour, after they started. Last Sunday at 11 P. M. they made their start from Connelville and it was just 11 o'clock last evening that they returned to town.

The trip was made without mishap but the mud and grime that accumulated on the car testified to the rough riding that was encountered from time to time.

Rockwell Dull would have piloted the party on the trip but for the fact that it was necessary for him to remain at home and look after his father's interests at the Arlington Hotel.

PROMINENT MINISTER ACCEPTS RURAL CHARGE.

One of Pittsburgh's most prominent and active ministers will probably be taken to the "back to the soil" call and shortly will be in Pittsburgh to become a country person.

Rev. Dr. U. W. MacMillan, pastor of the Hazelwood Presbyterian church, has been unanimously called to the Presbyterian church at Hickory, Washington county, and that the opportunity afforded him to "lead the simple life" at the head of a rural congregation appeals to the minister. He is expected to leave for the new call: "It looks good to me."

LONG WILL FIGHT ON IN COURT NOW.

Case Was Taken Up Before Judge J. C. Work This Morning.

Witnesses Testify They Believed Late Samuel N. Long Was Not Mentally Responsible When He Made Will. Defense Says Will Was Fair.

UNSOUND MIND IS THE CLAIM

Special to The Courier. UNIONTOWN, Sept. 26.—The fight against the will of Samuel N. Long, late of Connelville, was taken up before Judge J. C. Work in Orphan's Court this morning. The contestants contend that Long was of unsound mind when he made his will in April of last year. The defense will insist that the will was a fair division of the estate. A brilliant array of legal talent has been lined up for the opposing forces. For the contestants appear Attorneys D. W. McDonald and John M. Core, while at the counsel table for the defense appears Attorneys P. S. Newmyer, D. M. Hertzog and E. C. Higbee. McDonald and Higbee are examining the witnesses.

Around the table of the contestants are George Long, Mrs. Katherine Morrow and Mrs. Hannah Fleming, who brought the action. On the other side appear Mrs. Samuel N. Long, widow of the deceased, Mrs. Robert Long and Humbert Long, the executor under the will.

Long died in November, 1909. Under his will, which is contested, he left one-third of his estate to his wife, one-third to his daughter, Fleming and the balance was divided among the grandchildren.

The first called was A. H. Manheimer, who testified to Long coming to his butcher shop on many occasions to look letters. Manheimer told of other peculiarities and declared he did not believe the man to be of sound mind. John and James Barnes, who worked in the shop at the same time, gave similar testimony.

Dr. T. H. White was then called. He declared Long was suffering from senile dementia or progressing senility. (Continued on Second page.)

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 26.—(Special.)—At services yesterday morning in the West Washington Methodist Episcopal church the congregation unanimously adopted a resolution denouncing a dance planned for next Friday evening, to be the formal opening of the new $50,000 annex of Washington High School, and one of the social events of the fall.

The Rev. J. W. McIntyre, pastor of the church, denounced the dance in his sermon and declared it was not right that the school board should place such temptation before the students. A resolution proposed by Mr. McIntyre asking that the board cancel the dance was adopted.

Small Boys With a Rifle Cause Alarm

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, Sept. 26.—Two small boys and a rifle came near causing the death of Mrs. Ira Ray Collins, wife of the Morgantown Hill grocer, Saturday afternoon.

Joseph Amos and William MacJoseph, aged 12 and 14 respectively, were the proud possessors of one 22 calibre rifle and had started out on the hunt for sparrows. Their aim was anything but straight.

Mrs. Collins was sitting on the porch of her home on Highland avenue, reading, when suddenly "she heard" something fly past her head and a window directly back of her fell with a crash. An investigation resulted in finding a good sized bullet buried in the wall at the other side of the room.

The boys were seen to run after the glass fell and later were placed under arrest by Officer Elmer Nelson, on information of J. M. Collins, father-in-law of Mrs. Collins.

At their hearing this morning before Burgess R. McCann, they said they were half a block away when they fired. The magistrate warned them of their narrow escape from answering for a more serious offense and they were released after promising to replace the glass and refrain from shooting within the borough limits.

Dr. Crippen Is Held for Murder By Coroner's Jury

United Press Telegram.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The Coroner's jury investigating the Crippen case returned its verdict today that Mrs. Crippen (Belle Elmore) died at the hands of her husband. The jury fixed the degree of the crime as murder.

Coroner Selwood favored Crippen in reviewing the evidence and said the identity and sex of the body supposed to have been Crippen's wife were inconclusive and evidence unsatisfactory showing the cause of death.

"It does not follow that because Crippen lied about his wife's death and fled to Canada that he killed her outright. Miss Lenevo's connection with the case must not be considered after the light."

The verdict was not a surprise.

LOU PAYNE IS THE SPOKESMAN

Veteran of the Old Guard Forces Will Be First to Meet the Colonel When He Arrives at Saratoga—Delegates Say They Come to Fight.

United Press Telegram.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Lou Payne, the Old Guard veteran, will be the first caller when Colonel Roosevelt arrives this afternoon. He will appeal to the Colonel for mercy and will admit privately that the Old Guard is "licked to a frazzle," although this will not be admitted openly.

Payne will ask the Colonel not to force the issue on the temporary chairmanship. He will declare that a majority of the up-State delegates want Sherman and the turning down of the Vice President will hurt the party more than anything inserted or omitted from the platform.

Sherman and Roosevelt are expected to stand pat on the result of the test vote of the convention. Delegates are flocking to Saratoga today and all declare they are here to fight.

It is declared if he forces Sherman out of the chairmanship a majority of the delegates will support Colonel Roosevelt but a majority of them are also opposed to a progressive platform following the lines of the "New Nationalism." A compromise on platform points is necessary and how the topic of discussion is what the party will agree upon. Both factions are wide apart and it is uncertain whether a compromise is possible.

"I came here to be temporary chairman. The State Committee invited me," said Vice President James S. Sherman with a bright smile as he closed this morning. He told his closest friends, admitting Roosevelt would have the most votes, "I'm going to be temporary chairman, remember that."

The first move to embarrass the Roosevelt men was made at noon when the Old Guard announced that it will demand an open session of the committee on resolutions so the debate can be public. It is admitted the debate will be lively and it is claimed it will "put in the hole" the Roosevelt followers by a revival of the statements they made regarding direct primary legislation.

Speaker Wadsworth is the anti-Roosevelt candidate for the chairmanship of the committee. If Roosevelt is elected temporary chairman he intends to name Senator Root chairman. Wadsworth and Barnes intend to show that the Colonel told them when Governor Hughes raised the direct primary issue that such legislation was absurd and designed as the weapon of a demagogue and millionaire.

The Old Guard will argue that this is Roosevelt's private opinion but that he has taken up the scheme to aid his candidacy for the Presidency in 1912. In 1912.

Tin Ceiling Was Not Sited to Deaden
the Noise to Any Perceptible Extent—Eighteen Arrests Saturday and Sunday.

Special to The Courier.
UNIONTOWN, Sept. 25.—Before
Hargess H. B. McCrum this morning Y. Thomas and Mike Seaman argued at some length as to whether a man has the right of dancing on Saturday until midnight or 3 o'clock Sunday morning.

Both live on Gallatin avenue. So-man in the room directly over Thomas' fruit store. The latter retired at 11.45 but was unable to sleep because of the dancing and singing, overhead, and climbed the stairs with a request for peace.

"In my own boss, we've got to dance until 3 o'clock," he said. So mans replied just before closing the door in his face.

Thomas said he might have been able to stand the noise if only one man had been dancing, but there was half a dozen, all going at once, and singing; he went for an officer. A short distance down the street, he said the men caught up with him, and after some words, one of them knocked him down. Promptly, on rising, he loved his assailant. At this point, he says Seaman entered this scrap, together with a four foot club, which he used to a good advantage.
The prosecutor's looks proved the statement.

During the examination, Thomas said a tin ceiling between the two apartments where they live, added greatly to the noise. "You ought to have seen the house shake," he concluded. A fine of five dollars was imposed and paid.

Rock Calasena was arrested by Officer Elmer Nelson, charged with quarrelling on the streets after being told to desist. The defendant said he did not stop because the second party to the argument, who owed him a bill, kept repeating:

"I'll not cheat you out of a cent," when, as a matter of fact, it was $3
that he owed. "He no cheat me out of a cent; he cheat me out of $3," Calasena told the burgess. He was fined $5 and drew the bill from a roll that made the eyes of many spectators glare.

There were 18 arrests Saturday night and Sunday, four leaving for tots.

mildness. This was due to a hardening of the arteries which did not afford the brain sufficient nourishment. Dr. White testified that Long was obliged to him that he was suspicious of those around him. He had delusions and had lost his reasoning powers.

Charles Austin was the next witness. He told of Long putting his hat on a revolving rack in a Conneltsville barber shop. Another man came in and hung up his hat, swinging Long's to the rear. When Long was shaved, he insisted upon taking the "other man's" hat, insisting that it was his own. Austin told of other peculiarities he had noticed. He told of going to Long's home one morning to shave him when the man apparently thought someone had tried to keep him away.

At that time, Austin testified, some woman standing in the door put her finger to her head and nodded, indicating that the man was mentally unbalanced.

By special agreement Dr. S. D.
Woods and Rev. J. L. Proudfoot, who witnessed the signature to the Long will, were called by the defense. Both testified that they were not permitted to read the will but merely to witness the signature. They were of opinion that Mr. Long was of sound mind at the time. Rev. Proudfoot stated later that he noticed Mr. Long was peculiar in many ways.

J. M. Herpich testified that he did not believe Mr. Long was fit to make a will. Edward Baer said Mr. Long was always apparently able to take care of himself in a business way but was inclined to act a little queerly.
He often spoke of the wife trying to poison him, one of the hallucinations to which Dr. White referred.

Final Advertisement of the Aaron Store's Remarkable SEPTEMBER SALE

Reduced Prices Not Effective After This Week

It has been the most remarkable September Sale we have ever had or heard of. People from all parts of Western Pennsylvania have bought heavily since the very first day of the sale. Words cannot describe the feeling of satisfaction it has given us to see how implicitly our published announcements are believed by everybody. And the very knowledge of this confidence has made us doubly careful to say nothing which we could not "make good."

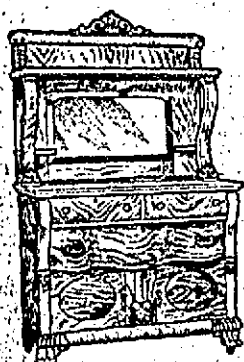

So far as we are concerned we believe this advertisement is not necessary. We believe the store would have been crowded during the remaining days of the sale without further publicity. But we print it as a final reminder to everybody who has been intending to profit by our sale who might possibly put off too long. We are grateful through and through for the way you have treated us and we won't forget it.

THE DEMOCRATIC PLEA
TO FAYETTE COUNTY VOTERS.

The Democratic aggregation has come and gone, and it is safe to say that Fayette county is unconvinced and unconvinced. The Democratic argument was chiefly a plea for peace.
When it was not attacked by inconsistent
it begged the question.

The speakers deplored EXISTING POLITICAL CONDITIONS, pleaded for NON-PARTISAN ACTION AT THE POLLS and asked their hearers with an unbroken voice to have put forth a plea for the country's life as a return to DEMOCRATIC RULE.

The Democratic party has always deplored existing political conditions when it was chewing the bones of defeat. It is quite natural for Democrats, and especially Democratic candidates, to think such conditions deplorable. There is nothing new or strange in this complaint.

The plea for that particular species of non-partisan politics which is specially designed to insure the return of the Democratic party to power in State and Nation is not one which will appeal to Republicans or to independent voters who have had a taste of Democratic rule in times past.

THE NATIONAL POLICIES OF
THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY ARE NO-Toriously AT VARIANCE WITH
THE INDUSTRIAL INTERESTS OF
THE COUNTRY GENERALLY AND
OF THE CONNELLSVILLE COKE REGION PARTICULARLY. We take it that it is not necessary to argue this point to intelligent voters.

As to State Government, it is true that the Democratic party gave us Governor Pattison, but it also gave us Treasurer Noyes and a Democratic coterie of politicians who robbed the State in a manner comparatively quite as reckless and royal as that of the State Capital trustees. We might go back further and refer to the gingantic and notorious State Canal steals of ante-bellum days. But all this is ancient history. WE MUST JUDGE POLITICAL PARTIES AS THEY ARE TODAY, NOT AS THEY WERE THEN. PARTIES CHANGE THEIR LEADERS AND THEIR PRINCIPLES. In the days of Pattison, for example, the Democratic party of Pennsylvania did not look for able leaders, wise counselors and statesmen of high character. It furnished Congress with Speaker Randall and Senator Wallace, commanding figures at Washington during a number of years. SINCE THEN IT HAS CHANGED ITS FAITH AND ITS

THE HUNTING SEASON IS ON.
President Taft has declared war on the "Fork Bar."—News Item.

LEADERS; ITS PRESTIGE AND ITS FORTUNES ARE FALLEN; IT HAS DEGENERATED FROM DEMOC-RACY TO DEMAGOGUERY.

The Republican party has furnished Pennsylvania with many good Governors, notably the present incumbent, who in point of ability has been exceeded by few, and in integrity of purpose and efficient administration by none. It will be remembered that the Democrats denounced him as a weak creature of the Penrose machine. Today they are saying precisely the same thing about John Kinley Tamm.
The Democrats have tried to make political capital out of the State Capitol scandal, but it will be recalled that Governor Stuart and a Republican administration hunted the rascals down and pursued them to just judgment.

Candidate Grim's chief argument is that the Republican administration of Pennsylvania has been extravagant, because there has been more money spent since the regime of Governor Pattison than ever before; but it must be remembered that Pennsylvania has grown wonderfully within that period, and that its revenues, derived chiefly from the taxation of corporations, have been tremendously increased, thus enabling Republican administrations to be more liberal in their appropriations to worthy objects, such as the public schools, the charitable institutions, good roads and many other good objects. In the meantime, it may also be mentioned, the debt of the State has been wiped out. In spite of the fact that a State Capitol worthy of Pennsylvania has been provided without the creation of any new indebtedness.

These facts warrant the conclusion that the REPUBLICAN PARTY IS WORTHY OF THE CONFIDENCE OF
THE VOTERS NOW AS IN OTHER TIMES, and dispose of the vain pretensions of an opposition that pretends in the name of PUBLIC VIRTUE to gain POLITICAL POWER.

NEWS MATTER
AND EDITORIAL OPINION.

Some Conneltsville citizens complain loudly through the columns of the press concerning the dealers in milk and ice and coal. They say the milkmen are extortionate in threatening another advance; that the ice men are unreasonable in demanding advance payments; and that the coal men are actually dishonest in giving short weight.

These are grave charges, but they have not been fully substantiated by positive and convincing evidence.
Some of the milkmen deny that they will advance the prices of milk, October 1st. The ice manufacturers, in asking their customers to buy tickets in small amounts, are only enforcing a rule which they adopted some time ago, a rule which we may add is general in most communities, saving booking and is sensible. The objection that the ice company might fail is not quite so probable and reasonable as the contrary objection that the customer might fail to settle. The charge that coal dealers are giving short weight is more serious. It can be shown to have foundation, the authorities should establish city scales. It must be remembered, however, that if this is done, the weigh-master's fees will always be a charge upon the consumer.

There are all manner for investigation and consideration, as are also the charges that certain public building operations have been tainted with extraneous or worse; but it must not be assumed that any well conducted newspaper undertakes any responsibility for the statements of others, or makes any judgments not expressed in its editorial columns. Its news columns are open, within reasonable and proper limits, to all; its editorial columns, to none.

"Kind Words from the Opposition," is the name in which the Conneltsville News refers to certain challenges of Editor Lou Smith of the Newsdealer Commercial, who is at present supporting the Keystone ticket. When it is considered that Editor Smith has with rare exceptions been in league ever since he returned from the war and established his excellent paper, it will possibly be admitted that the word "Opposition" is advisedly used. However, Editor Smith's opposition has been more cheerful than forceful in his kind words for the Democratic ticket will not we imagine be serious to him as Somerset county Republican leader.

Milk prices have been pretty tight

ing of the derby is more fashionable than the heat of summer lingers.

Automobiles cost lives as well as money, but the people will have them.

Westmoreland county's recent primary just can't get out of court.

The Pure Food Law it is announced has increased the price of oysters. It may be added that its operations have necessarily increased the price of other foods. It is one of the factors of the high cost of living. The Turf

Mt. Pleasant is negotiating for the services of Billy Sunday. No use; Billy can't compete with the gas company.

In spite of the lateness of the season,
snake stories are still coming in.

Politics are very much mixed these days, but the hope of the country lies in the fact that the opposition is probably more seriously divided than the Republicans.

Bellamy Storor and wife threaten to be a year of fearful politics.

There are an unusual number of applications for naturalization in Fayette county this year. The foreign residents are becoming impressed with ship.

The construction of Conneltsville's
new postoffice seems to be a deliberate proposition.

The West Penn stands unexpected inspection excellently well.

The down county doctors who couldn't tell the difference between infantile paralysis and a broken arm

fully buried.

Somerset county seems to be suffering from wholesale hold-ups. Perhaps the county king has been reorganized.

The Sheriff seems to be running Conneltsville's restaurant business. Perhaps the high cost of living is responsible for the future of low-priced eats.

The Uniontown Genius explains that there are good horses and bad horses.
Previously unmentioned, this means that Colonel Guffy is a good horse and Senator Penrose is a bad horse. It must be admitted that the Democratic party has had reason to regret Colonel Guffy as its Angel and Senator Penrose as its Devil.

Uncle Joe Cannon still has the confidence of his constituency, and none know him better.

Brownsville is awakening to the fact that it needs a hospital. This is not the only awakening Brownsville has Railroad employees generally are of

The Sugar Trust "bust" is on the Conneltsville products go long distances, but local region by-products

they have been utterly wasted here.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM LIGHTNING.

Mrs. Mary Ann Porter and John Keifer Almost
Struck by Bolt

STRIKING A FEW FEET DISTANT

Their Horse Wilted in His Tracks and Both the People Were Somewhat Stunned—Berkey M. Boyd Being Jolted About His Arrest.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTTSVILLE, Sept. 26.—Mrs. Mary A. Porter, widow of the late Samuel S. Porter, in company with her son-in-law, John Keifer, had a narrow escape from death in the heavy thunderstorm that swept the neighborhood of Grandview Church west of town Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Porter and Mr. Keifer left their home a mile west of town in a buggy to drive to Morrison Gulch's home, where Mrs. Porter was to visit. While near Rutledge's not far from the Grandview Church, a storm came up and Mr. Keifer stopped the buggy and getting out began to put on the curtains. The rain came heavily and the horse was turned away from the storm. There had been some thunder and lightning and then one bolt fell blazing in the air in the people's faces, followed by a deafening crash of thunder. With the flash of lightning their horse wilted to the ground and was apparently killed, but recovered and staggered to his feet. Mr. Keifer coming around the buggy found that Mrs. Porter had been somewhat stunned by the shock. They continued their way and Mrs. Porter remaining where she went to visit. Mr. Keifer came back toward home. When he reached the spot they had their terrifying experience. W. Rutledge came out and said "Well, you had a mighty narrow escape." Mr. Keifer, who had thought the lightning had struck a tree not far distant, was more surprised when shown that the lightning had struck a fence post at the side of the road where they had stopped, and the lightning had torn along the post entering the ground and running into an old well. Mrs. Porter, who is the mother of M. E. Porter of Dawson and Samuel Porter of Vanderburg, was no more torn to pieces than having her nerves badly upset.

A Curse of the Country.
The curse of the country residents on Sunday afternoon has broken out again with the winds of wandering young men and boys who invade the surrounding districts. Besides doing damage when it comes down to them the invaders yell and use such language that at many places ladies are not safe to go outdoors for fear of insult. Such things do not encourage the return to the country life.

No Rain Here.
There was a thunder storm passed over Scottsville on Saturday afternoon, and no rain fell, although there seemed every indication of it. However, there was almost a deluge reported from about Wednesday night and even near as Haverly above town. From reports brought to town on Saturday evening the rainfall was heavy through a certain strip of country circling Scottsville.

Boyd Was Home.
Berkey H. Boyd received some jolting when he arrived home Saturday night to round up Sunday. Scottsville people had heard of his arrest on Friday evening charged with "intimidating voters," the latest middle in the befuddled assembly candidate fight.

Attended Conference.
Rev. M. W. Lintner, pastor of the First United Brethren Church, who is just recovering from an attack of typhoid fever, was here last night on Saturday when he attended the session conference being held in Braddock. It was absolutely necessary if possible, that he should be present and he went.

Big Crowd Out.
There was a large audience and a very appreciative one that assembled in Louisa park yesterday when the bandstand was filled with members of the G. A. R. Band and a large number of visiting musicians who gave a splendid concert.

Card of Thanks.
Ivy H. Dills desires to convey through The Courier the sense of great appreciation he feels toward the many friends who so generously gave their help in many ways during the illness and following the death of his beloved wife, Orla L. Dills.

MASONTOWN WON.

Defeated Dunbar 7 to 4 on Saturday Afternoon, Sheetz Pitching.
Masontown defeated Dunbar 7 to 4 Saturday afternoon. Bill Sheetz worked for Masontown against the Dunbar boys, who had Sammy Fletcher in the box. Fletcher was no particular puzzle at any time. He had a three base hit. Masontown made 11 hits off Fletcher while the best Dunbar could do was 7 off Sheetz. The score by innings:

Masontown . . . 1 0 0 7 1 0 0 2 11
Dunbar . . . 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 2 7
Pitchers, Sheetz and Jones; Fletcher and White.

Big Family Reunion Held At Pleasant Valley on Saturday.

There was a good attendance at the Stauffer-Marietta-Stillwagon reunion held at Pleasant Valley Saturday. Pleasant Valley is a picturesque dell at the foot of the mountains near the Freelandville reservoir. A more suitable place for a family reunion would be hard to find. People were constantly arriving from the early morning till noon until the grounds were fairly alive with humanity.

The day proved to be an ideal one, the weather neither chilly nor sweltering. Long tables were set under the trees beside the Pleasant Valley school house, and everybody joined in a sumptuous repast, the first ever attempted by these families on a large scale. This being the first affair of this sort ever attempted it fell somewhat short of expectations owing to the inability to get in connection with members of the families residing at a distance in the remarkably short time the reunion was gotten under way, however, it tended well to serve those in charge of the minute and intricate details and enormous effort of holding family reunions on a large scale in the years to come.

Five generations of the Stauffer-Marietta-Stillwagon families were well represented. Mrs. Elizabeth Stillwagon, 81 years of age, was the oldest. Mrs. Mary, the year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lehard, was the youngest.

The Stillwagon family was traced back to the Colonial times, prior to the Revolutionary war. The oldest known member was Peter Stillwagon, who was born along the Rhine river in Germany. He emigrated to the United States in 1765 and settled in Jersey, now New Jersey, where he took up farming. He was married to Mrs. Elizabeth Poole of Jersey. In Philadelphia he held a position then destined to become the capital of the United States, a few years later. When the war of the rebellion broke out he and his wife entered the service of the army enlisting under a Jersey regiment. In the struggle for independence one out of every ten men in the army was allowed to take his wife as a cook, hospital nurse or any other capacity which she could serve. After the English rule in the colonies was overthrown both Mr. and Mrs. Peter Stillwagon were given their discharge in Philadelphia, then the capital of the United States of America. They then emigrated westward and settled in the vicinity of Connelldale where they sons and four daughters were born to them. They are William, Decker, Andrew, John, Peter, Mrs. Keifer; the maiden names of the daughters become somewhat confusing in the record.

To Mr. and Mrs. William Stillwagon was born 9 children, William, Decker, Henry Joseph, John, Wilson, Mrs. Elizabeth (Stephan) Robbins, Mary, who died in infancy, and Mrs. Sarah (Joseph) Marietta; and to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Stillwagon, 10 children were born, George, D. B., Bartholomew, C. K., Isaac C. Crawford, Henry, W. P., Mrs. Elizabeth Smiley, and Mary who died in infancy.

To Mrs. Stephen Robbins of the second generation was born four boys and eight girls, Henry, Mrs. Light Brown, Mrs. Rebecca Rigor, Miss Dianah, Mrs. Mary Vance, deceased, Miss Patience, deceased, Mrs. Carolyn Shaw, Stephen, Madison, who died in Libby Prison, Joseph and Mrs. Sarah Byrnes.

To Decker Stillwagon, brother of Mrs. Stephen Robbins, was born William, John, deceased, Mrs. Sophia Swink, Mary, died in infancy, Joseph George, deceased, Frank and Wilson, and to Mrs. Sarah (Stillwagon) Marietta was born 13 children, Joseph, Albert, Allen, VanAnberg, Almont, Mary, Elizabeth, DeLoe, Quintman, Rockwell, Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Foust, Margaret, deceased, Leander, Leroy, Mrs. Adella Brookman, Sarah Gull, James and Marcus.

To John Stillwagon was born William, Mrs. Lydia Lilly, Boston B. Abraham, Mrs. Sadie Lilly, deceased, Mrs. Maggie Mamiaw, Mrs. Elizabeth Stillwagon, Seymour, John and James.

To Wilson Stillwagon of the third generation was born Morris, Mrs. Paula Brooks, Flora, deceased, Joseph and Mary, a brother and sister of Wilson are both deceased. To Henry W. Stillwagon, brother of Mrs. Sarah Marietta was born James, William, Miss Margaret, Mrs. Malissa Marietta, deceased, Mary, deceased, J. W. Henry, and Mrs. Nancy Menner.

To Abraham P. and Mary Stauffer, of the Stauffer family, was born Mrs. Elizabeth Stillwagon, Daniel, Amzi, deceased, Smith, who died in Libby Prison, Cyrus, John W., Mrs. Amanda Shaffer and Mrs. Mary Jane Wiley.

The Stillwagon family is one of the largest and oldest families in the United States. The fact that this extensive family is scattered throughout the union and for them to be present in such a short time would have been impossible and in this respect the affair did not come up to expectations, otherwise everything came off without a hitch.

There was a well played game of ball in the afternoon between the Stauffer family and Pleasant Valley in which Stauffer won by the score of 3 to 0. Many outdoor games were indulged in and the day was pleasantly spent by all.

The Old Folks Reunion Held at M. E. Church Largely Attended.

A representative gathering of Connelldale's old folks attended the annual reception for old folks held Sunday afternoon in the Methodist Episcopal Church by the Epworth League of the church. The reception was one of the largest ever held, about 120 aged men and women being in attendance. These events have become very important ones to the old folks of Connelldale who are in the habit of attending. Persons who are not able to get out very often during the year are always on hand at the old folks reception.

Through the kindness of Dr. J. P. Kerr, Dr. T. B. Edward and Harry Dunn the aged persons who were too feeble to walk to and from the church were conveyed to their destination in automobiles. This was one of the most delightful features of the afternoon as many enjoyed their first automobile ride. For those who would not ride in an automobile J. L. Evans kindly donated the use of a cab for the afternoon. Old families were welcomed at the reception as that of Mrs. Elizabeth Lucas, who died several months ago. Mrs. Lucas had been present at every reception until the last one. In age the guests ranged from 17 to 85 years, Mrs. Mary Dunlap being the oldest person present. John Bennett of West Newton, father of Mrs. Mary Silcox, was the next oldest. Mr. Bennett has reached the ripe old age of 86 years.

Invitations had been issued not only to the aged folks of the Methodist Episcopal Church, but to all other denominations as well. Every Protestant church was represented by members of the congregation and all the ministers were present with the exception of Rev. Spangler, who was out of town. Too much credit cannot be given the young folks of the Epworth League for the interest they display in the entertainment and care of the old folks. On their arrival at the church they were cheerfully received by a committee composed of young women and were then turned over to the ladies, who saw that they were comfortably seated. Nothing had been left undone toward looking after their comfort. Their hearty countenances showed that the kindness of the young folks was highly appreciated. Several aged men and women were present who were unable to walk without the aid of a cane. It was an inspiring sight to look over the church at the many happy haired men and women, many of whom seemed to enjoy excellent health. The church was handsomely decorated for the occasion, great bunches of fall flowers being arranged in a very artistic manner.

Old time hymns were rendered, the opening one being "Jesus Lover of My Soul." Other selections rendered were "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," "Abide With Me," and "Nearer My God to Thee."

Rev. C. L. Wagner, pastor of the Trinity Reformed Church, made the opening address. Rev. Christian Sturm offered prayer. Short addresses were delivered by Rev. E. A. E. Palmquist, Rev. C. M. W. Brown, Rev. J. B. Burgess, Rev. R. I. Cairns, Rev. J. C. Wolf, Rev. J. L. Proudt, Rev. B. J. White. Miss Elizabeth Williams gave a very entertaining reading. A vocal solo by James Hicks was one of the most pleasing of the musical numbers. A quartet composed of Mrs. George McElroy, James Hicks, Philip Schwartz and Miss Helen Carroll, rendered a selection. Among the old folks who gave short talks were Mrs. Elizabeth Roberts, Mrs. George O'Brien and Mrs. N. C. Smith. Joseph Brown of Columbus, O., was present and gave a brief talk. Mrs. Patience brought gifts from Miss Mallard Cunningham, who is seriously ill at the Baptist Home for the aged and orphaned at West Newton.

The program was followed by a short social period after which the aged folks were seated around long tables which were laden with all the delicacies of the season and ample justice was done to everything which was placed before them. Among the out of town persons was Mrs. George O'Brien of Meigsdale, a former well known resident of the West Side.

BENNETT ACCUSED.

Coroner's Jury Charges Him With the Shooting of Marshall.

GREENSBURG, Sept. 26.—(Special) Coroner J. Albert McMurray held a post mortem and inquest on the death of W. C. Marshall of Pittsburgh, the deputy sheriff who was killed in a speakeasy brawl at Export Friday night. The jury held John Bennett, the deputy who did the shooting, for the crime. Thus far nothing of Bennett's whereabouts has been learned. The State police and deputy sheriffs, doing duty at Export, have been searching the hills and old mine workings for the fugitive, and have been unable to locate him. George Zimmerman, who was shot in the leg, was taken to his home in Pittsburgh Saturday.

CAR SHOPS BEATEN BY YOUNGWOOD BOYS

Nowasky Lost the Game for the Shops by Two Costly Muffs.

Special to The Courier.
EYERSON, Sept. 26.—Manager John Gordon took his sturdy Car Shops team to Youngwood Saturday and was beaten by the score of 6 to 1 in a somewhat loosely played game. In playing Larson and the better of their opponents but several costly errors by Nowasky (Watson), gave the game to Youngwood. Nowasky, the Car Shops glumly baseman, had an off day. He muffed two easy flies that cost them the game. In the sixth with the bases full and two out he had a chance to win the game, but fanned. Except the twirling of Horne the game was practically featureless. It is rumored here that "Socks" Seybold's Jeannette team will play the Car Shops team at Ellsworth park, Scottsdale, Saturday. Seybold and several other players on his team are former major league players. The Car Shops team has been playing glit edged ball all season and the meeting of these two teams will prove to be interesting.

John Arbuckle Says He Can Do It at Very Small Expense.

ARBUCKLE WANTS THE JOB

Would Save Uncle Sam Money in Raising Maine, He Declares.

New York, Sept. 26.—John Arbuckle has written to President Taft, offering to raise the Maine for $150,000 less than the estimated cost of any other plan submitted. John F. O'Rourke, head of the O'Rourke Construction company, has said that he could bring the Maine into New York harbor under her own steam for about $600,000. Mr. Arbuckle's letter to the president in part is as follows:

"I can save the United States $150,000 in raising the Maine over any other proposed plan, with the assistance of Captain McAllister and Mechanical Engineer W. W. Wether- spoon, the ablest wrecking masters in the world."

"I respectfully ask you to appoint a commission of scientific men who have knowledge of marine affairs to make their report to you as to the most feasible plan for raising the Maine."

Owing to the fact that Mace & Co. have convinced the people of Connellsville and vicinity that they are going out of business, you will pay higher prices for everything you need to wear.

CHAPTER VIII.
CADDWALLADER HUNTER'S REVENGE.

At the sound of Loveland's voice Caddwaller Hunter straightened up in haste and turned round, looking suddenly and wickedly at a frozen smile. He stared into Loveland's eyes, his own like gray glass, and an unpropitious smile depressed the corners of his thin lips.

"Oh, that's it, is it?" thought Val with the carelessness of a man used to dominating situations. "He's afraid I'm not going to speak to him, and he doesn't speak first for fear of being scolded again. Well, and I'll tell him a lead. How are you?" he asked with the patronizing tone his voice unconsciously took when he spoke to this man.

Then he could hardly believe his eyes, which told him that Caddwaller Hunter had turned a contemptuous shoulder upon him, darting a disgust in a venomous glance.

"This is the person who was speaking of," he said to the dark, clean shaven man toward whom he had been bending (he seemed always to be bending toward someone) when Loveland came up. "Shall we have him turned out?"

Mr. Coolidge half rose in his seat, losing his characteristic stolidity. "No, no," he returned in a low, decided voice, "there must be no scene here, for the ladies' sake. Keep quiet, everybody."

"You're right, Coolidge," returned the dark, smooth faced man. Then the latter fixed his eyes on Loveland with a stare under a frown, and the other now man stared also, but the three women looked away, trying in vain to think of something easy and natural to say to each other.

Val stood for a moment stupidly, like a boy in the schoolroom who has been bidden to stand up and be stared at as a punishment for some misdemeanor. He was almost inclined to laugh at the insolence of Caddwaller Hunter, as a lion might laugh at a fox terrier worrying his foot. It was on his lips to say: "What a tempest in a teapot! Surely you're not going to believe any idle tale that this hunting ass may have trumped up about me!"

Then he passed on toward his own table. There were two chairs at Loveland's table—placed in case he might choose to bring a guest—and he deliberately selected the one which put him with his back to the Coolidge party. But he had forgotten that Major Cadwalader Hunter was not one of that party and might wander at will to any part of the dining room. Presently he did begin to wander, stopping to talk with another group of people, then with another, and so on, always on his way somewhere else.

A polite waiter had slipped a menu into the hand of Loveland, who regarded the decorated square of card-board as if it were a fetish to preserve him from evil. But if he had deigned to let his eye follow Caddwaller Hunter he would have seen that each group of people glanced with furtive curiosity at him; stared, whispered, stared again and afterward signaled each other from table to table.

Caddwaller Hunter prided himself on knowing all the people who were worth knowing wherever he went. He had dined early because he had been minded to show himself rather late at the first performance of a new comedy by the brilliant young playwright, Sidney Cremer, but now he found himself appearing on the stage and acting almost a leading part in a drama a hundred times more exciting than he could see at any theater. He went straight from the restaurant to the long row of desks in the hotel office for a heart to heart talk with the clerk he had interviewed in the morning. Then, having made the impression and obtained the assurance he desired, he searched for other acquaintances in that vast decorative corridor of marble, facetiously known as "Peacock Alley." Meanwhile Loveland ordered his dinner, though not quite as carefully as he would have if it had not been for the disagreeable little incident which he tried to forget as if it were but one more in the series of pin pricks. As he had no money at present to pay for it he thought he might as well drown his vexations in champagne and asked for a bottle of the brand he liked best without even inquiring the New York conception of its price.

As the waiter would have gone off with the order Val called him back on a sudden thought. "Do you know the names of the people at the table where I stopped?"

"Yes, sir," replied the man. "They are very well known here. We often have them dining and lunching. Mr. Coolidge is a millionaire. He and his daughter are just back from Europe, and Mrs. and Miss Milton too."

"Yes, yes," said Loveland impatiently. "I know all that. But the others?"

"Oh, the smooth shaven gentleman with the black hair and prominent eyes—he's Mr. Milton. Mrs. Milton's husband—rather a gay sort of gentleman, sir. The story is he and Mrs. Milton don't get along very pleasantly. There'll be plenty here tonight will be interested seeing them together just after her coming home with the young lady. And the other gentleman, sir—the good looking young one, with the dark mustache—that's one of our greatest New York swells, Mr. Henry Van Coter. He—"

"Thank you—that will do," broke in Loveland, suddenly answered by the waiter's knowing legerity. The name of Henry Van Coter had in such a connection stirred a dim sense of discomfort within him. This Van Coter was one of Harbort's friends. Val had left him a letter and a visiting card this afternoon at a house palace of an "apartment house" where Mr. Van Coter had a flat.

At that he saw his waiter coming back and was about to ask irritably whether the man thought it was tomorrow's breakfast he had ordered when a sealed envelope of the hotel paper was laid on the table in place of the expected oysters.

The servant discreetly retired out of sight behind his lordship's chair like a little boy who has lit a squib and awaits the explosion, and Loveland tore open the envelope, which, very oddly, he thought, was not addressed.

"Sir," he read in neat typing. "The management of the hotel present their compliments and inform you that the suit you are occupying will be required from this evening; also that they regret they have no other room to place at your disposal. Lord Loveland, hardly knowing what he said or did in the persistent nightmare from which he could not wake, called the waiter to him from ambush behind his chair. The man came, with eyes cast patiently down, not to meet the angry blaze turned dangerously upon him.

"There must be some mistake here," said Loveland, folding up the paper and replacing the three sheets in the envelope with fingers that were not quite steady. "This can't be for me. You see, there's no name on the thing. You've brought it to the wrong person."

"No, sir," returned the servant. "I was told to bring it to you. If there's a mistake, sir, it isn't me who's made it."

ing down a silver dollar for the waiter. The Coolidges and their party were still at the violet decked table as Loveland passed by, but he did not see them. He had forgotten their existence.

"Papa, the major has done it!" exclaimed Elmer Coolidge, looking across at her father, who sat between Mrs. Milton and Fanny.

"Yes, he has done it," replied Mr. Coolidge, smiling the wooden smile which was of late carved ivory when reproduced on the beautiful face of his daughter. "I don't know what's come over the major since this morning. He seemed to love that Englishman like a son on board the Mauretania, but tonight he fairly jumped out of himself with joy when he heard Van Coter's place of news."

"I'm sure we were all as nice as we could be to Lord—lo, him," faltered Fanny Milton, who had drained the late from her eyes when one was looking, but only to make way, it seemed, for a new supply of salt water.

"Oh, speak for yourself, Fanny," said Mrs. Milton, with her exaggerated English accent. "As for me, I—"

"Why, mamma, you were just lovely to him every minute!" cried the girl, defending herself bravely. "If you weren't married, with a grown-up daughter, people might have thought you were in love with him yourself sometimes!"

"Nonsense!" retorted Fanny's mother, darting a furtive look at her child. "The way you talk shows you're not grown up!"

"I always thought he was the most conceited young man I ever saw," broke in Elmer Coolidge. "I could have boxed his ears often, and it would have served him right. I just enjoy this, it's like a play."

"Well, I think that real mean of you, Elmer," said Fanny. "And I don't see how you can feel that way. He looks so pale. It makes me sick to think what he's got to go through. Poor fellow, and he's so handsome! Did you ever see anything as beautiful as he looked just now when he went stalking by us with his head high and his face pale and his eyes like blue fire?"

"I certainly never saw a British 'lord' as handsome. They don't make 'em like that," said good looking Henry Van Coter. And then they all laughed, all except Fanny Milton. She was wondering what Lesley Deamer would do if he were there instead of tearing away toward Louisville as fast as an express train could carry her.

As it happened, Lesley was thinking of Lord Loveland at that very moment. Perhaps it was a kind of telepathy which brought her image so clearly before Fanny Milton's eyes, for Lesley's thoughts included Fanny.

The panting of the great engine and the rushing four of the wheels had come to have a refrain for her. "Never again—never again," she heard them say, as if the words were shouted spitefully into her ears. "Never see him again—never again. He'll forget you—forget you. Soon he'll marry—marry some rich girl!"

Of course he didn't deserve happiness with a girl he married for money. Yet Lesley couldn't bear to think of him as miserable or disappointed in life. The brilliant sparks which showed cred past the train windows seemed to her like the moments she had spent with Loveland, moments left behind forever now, and she could not help wishing that she might live them over again.

"Perhaps I might have helped him to be different if I'd tried," she said to herself as she watched the specks of fire which flashed and died. "But I didn't try. I was too proud to try, I suppose. It was a silly kind of pride, for he could be no such a man if he knew himself and would live up to himself."

RAILROAD MEN BACK UP DEMAND.

Stand With Employers in Fight to Raise Freight Rates.

INTERESTS IDENTICAL, MEN SAY

Strong Appeal Sent to Commerce Commission by 3,000 Delegates Representing the Railroad Unions of the Country.

New York, Sept. 26.—The most significant council of railroad employees ever held in this country instructed at the Amsterdam Opera House the chiefs of the four great organizations of railroad workers to go to Washington and appeal to the government for the United States for a square deal to their employers.

The meeting was characterized by the brotherhoods themselves as the most momentous since the first spike was driven into the first railroad for these reasons: It was the first out and out pronouncement that the interests of employees and employers are identical; it was the first time the powerful unions have ever united to back up the railroad companies by going directly to the government; it marked, as the leaders of the brotherhoods agreed, the growth of a spirit of fairness and mutuality toward the companies that pay the wages.

Three thousand delegates came with authority from 350,000 railroad workmen on sixty-three railroads east of the Mississippi river and they represented 2,000,000 voters dependent for a livelihood on the railroad companies.

After four hours' conference they addressed a memorial to President Taft, the interstate commerce commission and all national and state law-making bodies. The memorial contains resolutions which support the proposal of the railroad companies that they be permitted to make reasonable increases in rates.

The delegates were in absolute harmony on all of the principal points brought up at the meeting. These were that:

"Everything the railroads must buy has gone up in price and the only thing they sell—transportation—has gone down."

"The companies are required to make a greater outlay every year for perfected service, safety appliances, wages and supplies."

"The rates now permitted are too low to enable the companies to make a fair profit, pay fair wages or to continue to provide high-class service to the public."

"The employees can obtain fair wages only by supporting the companies in an appeal to the government to authorize reasonable rate increases which experience has shown to be necessary."

"The companies need the backing of their employees' especially in view of the constant agitation of manufacturers' association, jobbers, middle men and politicians for still lower rates."

"There is no confession of weakness on the part of the unions in such support of the companies. They will continue to insist upon higher wages, better working conditions, shorter hours and adequate compensation for workers injured or killed in the service but the companies must have home earning power to meet these demands."

"There will be no political agitation, but candidates for office will be requested to answer questions concerning their attitude toward employers and employees."

NATIONAL IRRIGATION CONGRESS HOLDS EIGHTEENTH ANNUAL SESSION.

PUEBLO, Colo., Sept. 25.—It is a peculiarly appropriate and equally significant fact that the eighteenth national irrigation congress is held in the city named for the tribe of Indians that first practiced the ancient art of irrigation in this country—the Pueblo tribe. These Indians inhabited portions of the States of New Mexico and Arizona as well as southern Colorado. Their descendants were still cultivating the land and practicing irrigation when the Spanish came to these parts centuries ago. Traces of the work of this tribe are still to be found in the great southwest, and the marvel of modern engineering in the precision with which they constructed their ditches and their works. The national irrigation congress has been a factor for good since its inception at Salt Lake City in 1892, and it is not too much to say that national policies have been formulated as the result of its influence. Members of cabinets and congress and high departmental officials have been among its leaders, and the annual gatherings have brought together the largest bodies of men of strong personality, power of initiative, high character and acknowledged ability for the consideration of questions of vital importance to the whole country. The work of the congress is helpful, the purpose being to assist the people of the whole country as well as those in this land of magnificent distances and possibilities and bring them together. The slogan of the congress best explains its purpose—"To save the forests, store the floods, reclaim the deserts and make homes on the land." The officers of the congress are: B. A. Fowler of Arizona, president; Arthur Hooker of Colorado, secretary, and R. Isinger of Washington, chairman.

GREEN ROOM CHAT.

THE SOISSON.

"The Lost Trail."

Among plays depicting Western life, "The Lost Trail" now on its sixth annual tour, is placed among the small company of the best. Its great success is attributable to the fact that its characters are lifelike, its heart interest satisfying and its love story virile and wholesome. The author spent two years in the locality he has dramatized and it is refreshing to note that the action of the play occurs at the present time so that the conventional scenes and situations so often witnessed upon the stage and no place in this stirring production.

"The Lost Trail" which comes to this city on Friday, Sept. 30, at the Soisson theatre unfolds a pretty love story set in a most inspiring atmosphere.

To walk through the Gothic chambers where the body of England's late monarch lay in state, to stand before Puddington station and watch the Kings of Europe ride by almost within reach; to view the thousands of contingents from all armies and navies paying a last tribute to the late Edward VII; to witness the splendor of that regal pageant through London and Windsor; all this and much more may be seen without the discomfort that had to be endured in the great crush at London. It will be the privilege of all those who will "travel with Lyman H. Howe" at the Soisson theatre, matinee and night Saturday, October 1, when he will take his tourists again over an entirely new route. It includes a ride up the Eiffel Tower; through the famous flocks of Norway; and over the snowbound Alps. Then there will be scenes of a Japanese jubilee; Mt. Etna in eruption; fearsome artillery maneuvers in Italy; life on a training ship; with many other scenes of equal interest.

THEATRE OFFERINGS BETTER THAN EVER.

Manager Fred Robbins, Predicts Great Season for the Saison.

GREAT ATTRACTIONS COMING

Besides "Havana," Three Other Big
New Shows are Booked for October
Together With High Class Attraction
of Lesser Pretensions.

Manager Fred Robbins of the Saison theatre predicts that this season Connellsville will see better theatrical attractions than ever before. His bookings already indicate a record breaking season in the high character of the attractions that will be offered. Much of this is due to Mr. Robbins' reputation in the booking offices as an aggressive, up-to-date manager who can be relied upon to get all the best shows there is to get. Mr. Robbins has worked tirelessly to make this a banner season and the October bookings alone are sufficient to awaken keen appreciation of a splendid season in patrons of the Saison.

One condition which will assure the Saison the best offerings is that the circuit on which it is located is owned by the operating forces in the theatrical world. It is unique in that both the syndicate and the exhibitors have financial interests in the circuit. As a consequence, the Saison will get the best that each has to offer.

"Connellsville theatre goers are to get more and better attractions this year than they ever dreamed of," said Manager Robbins today. As to the quarter, there is no question as to that. All the bookings for the month are not in, yet the Saison has but seven dark nights.

There are five big attractions during the month. Four of these are as good as the best of last year's offerings. Indeed, in October there are as many real good shows booked as came to the Saison all of last season.

The biggest and best of them all, of course, is "Havana," with James T. Powers and the original company. This is the first time "Havana" has played the one night stands and is only the second season on the road. The play is regarded as the most pretentious musical comedy of recent years and James T. Powers is the leading comedian in the country. Powers today is regarded as a comedian whose work is as good as that of Frank Daniels ever was, and Daniels, had few equals and no superiors.

Three other big shows are booked for the month, each of which is taking the road for the first time. All three had their beginning in New York last season and remained along Broadway all the year. They are "The Letter Man," "Miss Jimmy Fallon," and "Madame X." It would be hard to choose between the three. Each has been such a decided success that New York is still talking about it. That Connellsville should get these attractions while they are still new, and before some of the largest cities of the country have seen them, is a tribute to the management which deserves a packed house. Another big attraction during the month will be "The Soul Kissed."

There are other attractions during the month which deserve more than passing mention and among them are offerings of real merit, though not so pretentious as the headliners. The Saison really opens with "The Lost Trail," a melodrama which has appeared here several times in past years and has always pleased lovers of shows of that class. "The Lost Trail" is a melodrama far above the average. On October 1 will come the Lyman H. Howe travel pictures. The travel pictures are the best that can be found in the moving picture line. It is not an exaggeration to say that those who have once seen these pictures always attend the return engagements. Mr. Howe is constantly adding some new features to his pictures and this year has what the theatregoers will be the most popular of all, the pictures of King Edward's funeral. The long cortege, with kings, princes and potentates in line, the scene of the body lying in state and other interesting features of this grand ceremony will be shown. Besides this are a number of other new pictures that have been seen here before.

Three burlesque shows are booked for the month, two of them of the higher class. The "Orionals," with the "Cozy Corner Girls," and the "Calliopeans" have not been here for several years. They are far above the usual burlesque which has been seen here in the past. The "High Flyers" are also booked for an engagement.

A colored musical organization, somewhat different from the kind usually seen will also play one night during the month.

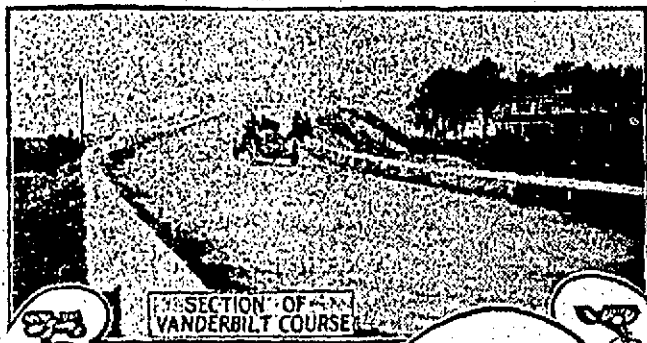

During the week of October 10 the King Stuck Company of New York will fill an engagement. This is a stock company of much higher calibre than that usually seen and will present a repertoire of high class plays.

In order to protect the patrons of the theatre from ticket speculators, Manager Robbins announces that no more than six seats will be sold to any one party for "Havana." Anticipating a capacity house, Mr. Robbins feels that the patrons are entitled to

AUTOMOBILE RACES OF THE YEAR FOR VANDERBILT CUP.

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Sept. 26.—The great event in automobile racing in America, for the year 1910 will soon be a thing of the past. Daily tests are being made by the fastest drivers in the country preparatory for the race for the Vanderbilt cup. Thirty cars have been entered for the race, and this year's contest promises to be the fastest ever held. Better than 47 miles an hour has been made in practice. It was in 1904 that William K. Vanderbilt offered a trophy to be contested for in a race of from 250 to 300 miles on a road course. The first race was run on a circuit in Nassau county, N. Y., and was won by George Henth, driving a Panhard car 281 miles at an average speed of 52 miles an hour. Henth, although an American, drove for a French company. The second contest, run in 1905, was won for France by Henry in a Darracq at an average speed of 61½ miles an hour. Franco scored his third triumph in 1906, when Wagner in a Darracq made 62 miles an hour for the 297 miles. There was no cup race in 1907, the fourth taking place on October 24, 1908, when George Robinson in a Locomobile made 64½ miles an hour. Last year's cup race was in the form of a sweepstakes, the Wheatley Hills event and the Massapequa sweepstakes taking place simultaneously with the cup race. Harry F. Grant in an Alco won from a field of 14 other starters at an average of 62 8-10 miles an hour, slightly slower than Robinson's record. Fitzgibbon, driving a Marmon, won the Wheatley Hills sweepstakes and Matson in a Chalmers the Massapequa event.

Have The Daily Courier delivered to your home or office every day.

In a story from Mt. Pleasant in Saturday's issue of The Courier it was stated that J. D. Madigan was driving the automobile which struck and fatally injured Joseph Pellka Thursday morning. That was incorrect. Mr. Madigan was a passenger in the car on his way to attend the funeral of Mrs. Francis J. Stiller at Latrobe. Burgess Collins of Mt. Pleasant, who gave the information that Mr. Madigan was driving the car, was misinformed.

Mr. Madigan has no automobile, is not licensed to drive one and has never driven one. The error placed Mr. Madigan in an embarrassing position and The Courier hastens to correct the mistake.

McCormick Cross the Goal and Lacey Kicks Straight Afterwards.

High School won its first game of the season Saturday by defeating the Alumni eleven 12 to 0. The teams appeared about evenly matched although the Alumni boys were on the defensive most of the time. High School's line held firm and but few gains were made through it. Fumbles also cost Alumni dear. On one occasion the Alumni were within striking distance of High School's goal, but were held for downs. The forward pass helped High School score each of its two touchdowns.

The first touchdown came just before the close of the first quarter, Moser taking Scott's pass and slipping across the goal from the 15 yard line. Lacey kicked a pretty goal. There was no scoring in either the second or third quarters, but towards the last of the final session High School again shot across the line, McCormick taking the pass on this occasion and Lacey again kicking goal.

In the third quarter McCartney for the Alumni had a fine chance to score. After a kick had been fumbled by High School, he secured the ball and started down the field, two High School players after him. After running 30 yards or so he fell. That was the best chance Alumni had.

High School played splendid ball in spite of the fact that several scrubs were in the Alumni lineup and could not interpret the signals. Great gains were made by Scott, Lacey and Bishop. Moser ran the team with rare good judgment. He retired towards the latter part of the contest. The team appears fully as strong as last year's aggregation. The lineup:

West Point Cadets Face Court Martial For Disrespect to Officer.

West Point, Sept. 26.—The entire cadet corps is under arrest and facing general court-martial for gross disrespect to Captain Rufus E. Longan, instructor in tactics and instructor in drill.

Major General Richard H. Barry, superintendent of the academy, sent the four classes of 500 young men to their quarters after mess on Saturday evening and a board of officers began at 1 o'clock this morning endeavoring to find out why the cadets "offended" Captain Longan. They won't tell.

All that General Barry and the board have got out of them in reply to questions is: "We have formed a dislike for this officer."

This penalty provided by law for this degree of insubordination is dismissal from the military academy.
